HODGE, Cal. Jan. 28.—Millions of dollars, pouring down from the sky, along this coast today. At 10 o'clock last night, on this desert, high up in clear air, the stars, of amazing brilliancy, seemed so close to earth you felt that you could reach up and take the big dipper by the handle. Today the sky is one gray cloud, stretching over the mountains westward far out on the Pacific.

No one can estimate the value of such a rainfall to this western coast. It means hundreds of millions in cash to fruit and vegetable growers. It is a rain persistent, gentle, not interfering with riding, working or other occupation. Nature seems to say to men, "You go about your business, I'll attend to mine and rain."

Investigators in California's San Quentin prison find that idleness is the cause of prison life, leading to rebellion, breeding and vice. Investigators might make the same report far from San Quentin, at Palm Beach, at Agua Caliente, Newport and other well-known resorts.

For those made worthless by inherited or too easily acquired wealth there is no cure, generally, but the undertaker. But there should be some way of keeping convicts busy, and interested in work. They should not compete to the detriment of free labor or private business, but they may be occupied with fair profit to themselves without such competition and made to know, by experience, that work is better and more profitable than crime.

Paris tells women that skirts for day wear will hereafter fall at least five inches below the knee. That is a step in the direction of sanity, a heavenly blessing to many women whose legs would not get thin no matter what they did.

Later, says Paris, all dresses will be long, as fashionable dresses are now for evening wear. That women should give up freedom in walking, acquired after centuries of struggle seems incredible. But as the sheep before her shepherds was dumb, so are women silent, acquiescent, before the fashion dictator.

Charles Chaplin says he will make a talk, at least for the present. He is making a silent picture that has already cost a million, and thinks his silence more eloquent than his voice, asking you to notice that the heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth forth his handiwork, silently, not in talkie fashion.

Chaplin said, and may be right, "a good talking picture is inferior to a good stage play, while a good silent picture is superior to a good stage play."

Phoenix, Ariz., not far from here, as western distaste is reckoned, reports the greatest mining year that Arizona has known. In copper alone, the state produced more than $33,000,000 pounds, 100,000,000 pounds more than last year value $149,200,000.

This interests comparatively few Americans of whom too many know of mining only through bad get-rich-quick experience. Arizona's climate interests everybody, and will be worth to the state more than metals ever were, after the mines are exhausted.

Phillips, deeply religious, will be featured in a ceremony that took place elsewhere in Arizona yesterday. A statue of "Christ, the king" was unveiled in the Garden of the Holy Family church in Tucson amid enthusiastic cries of "viva Christo" and "viva." A special message from the pope was read to the multitude, another from Archbishop Dwyer of Santa Fe.

The Catholic religion, complaining bitterly of persecution in Mexico, is prospering on this side of the border. Separation of church and state is good for church and state.

Oregon forbids use of hard tires on public highways. No automobile, truck, trailer or semi-trailer, weighing more than 1,800 pounds may use Oregon roads unless fully equipped with pneumatic tires. If highway-preserving ideas should spread to other states, it would mean a difference to tire makers.

Perhaps some one will find a cheap substitute for rubber in heavy duty tires. And cement, or other hard roads will be made to endure any sort of wear, safely.

The best news for civilization today travels from Asia, across Europe over the Atlantic and across the continent coming from Kemalist headquarters at Ankara. For the first time in history Turkish children are to be protected from exploitation through child labor.

Gigantic Steel Merger In Ohio Up To Shareholders

COMPANY WOULD RATE SECOND IN UNITED STATES

More than Three Hundred Millions Would Be In Merger

AFFECTS CANTON, YOUNGSTOWN AREA

Offices May Be Located In Youngstown Or Cleveland

Cleveland, Jan. 28.—Shareholders were being notified today of the terms by which four great mid-west steel companies will be welded together into the $335,000,000 new Republic Steel corporation.

Companies involved in the consolidation are the Republic Iron and Steel company, Central Alloy Steel corporation, Donner Steel company, incorporation, and the Bourne-Puller company.

The plan being put in the hands of the stockholders today is essentially one for an exchange of preferred and common stocks of the constituent companies for the preferred and common stocks of the new corporation which will be organized shortly to acquire all of the assets of the constituent companies.

Stockholders of the constituent companies may accept the plan by depositing their stock by February 17.

Initial capitalization of the new Republic Steel corporation, which, when consummated, will be the second largest independent steel producer in the country, will consist of $55,000,000 six per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock and 1,991,144 shares of common stock with a stated value of $167,725,000.

In addition the corporation is to absorb $59,059,400 in bonds of the merging units and $5,000,000 six per cent preferred of subsidiary.

Present merger terms provide that holders of common stock in the various companies are entitled to receive new Republic common.

Although no indication has been made thus far as to where headquarters of the new Republic Steel corporation will be located, it was rumored here today that they will be settled in Cleveland, Youngstown, however, is making a strong bid for the executive offices.

Among the guests at the service were Rev. C. R. Watson, pastor of the Nazarene church and Rev. Charles Bailey, pastor of the First Friends church. Special music consisted of a vocal solo by C. L. Oswald, singing evangelist, in charge of the music, and a vocal duet by Harold Babb and Ralph Snyder.

The subject tonight is "The Man Who Got Mad Before He Got Religion."

Salem insurance men, the Salem Better Business bureau members and Kiwanians have been invited to the Wednesday night service.

On Thursday the evangelist will speak at the Kiwanis club meeting.

The Ohio appointee is a native of Canton and a former resident of Kent.

FEDERAL FORCES TO INVESTIGATE RUM SYNDICATE

Liquor Traffic On Lake Erie Disclosed At Boozie Hearing

Cleveland, Jan. 28.—Using information supplied by two admitted former rum runners as a lever, federal authorities today attempted to pry off the cover of a large alleged rum-running syndicate which has been operating in the waters of Lake Erie.

The information was revealed yesterday at the hearing of Daniel F. Coughlin of Toledo and Pittsburgh, one of the reputed liquor syndicate chiefs, by Harley Bass and Ollie Zess, former Port Clinton, O., fishermen. They identified Coughlin as one of the "bosses" who helped them unload a cargo of liquor at Cedar Point last fall from a lugger to a truck.

Coughlin, who was arrested here last November with James A. Courtney of Detroit, and "Handsome" Larry Davidson of Cleveland, was held for the Toledo federal grand jury today under $7,500 bond on charges of violating the prohibition laws. Courtney disappeared following his arrest. Bonds amounting to $5,500 for the two counts against him have been forfeited.

Bass and Zess testified yesterday in Coughlin's hearing before U. S. Commissioner Martin J. Monahan, that they were employed by Courtney to run liquor from Amherstburg, Ont., to Cedar Point and Toledo. They received from $35 to $50 for each load, they declared.

Courtney, who is said to have paid $2,500 to four members of the coast guard last summer to let a load of rum go through, was reported to be in Canada.

COLUMBIANA OFFICIALS IN CAMPAIGN AGAINST SCHOOL BUS ACCIDENTS

Seek To Eliminate Rail Crossing Hazards By Using Great Care

With three school bus accidents, exacting lives of nearly a score of school children, between ages of six and 14 years, having occurred in Ohio in less than a month, a state-wide campaign to safeguard lives of school children being transported to and from schools throughout the state, was being extended to Salem and other cities, towns and villages in Columbiana county today.

Columbiana county authorities and the Columbiana County Motor club are cooperating in an extensive campaign, combining efforts to eliminate possible accidents that might result in injury or death to any of the 700 children who are passengers of 12 school buses in the county's limits.

J. S. Alan, superintendent of Salem public schools, has received a communication from J. L. Clifton, state director of education, asking the support of Salem school officials and the board of education in the movement to abolish further bus tragedies.

Officials take action. Sheriff William J. Barlow and Albert P. Morris, manager of the county motor club, have issued appeals to the state county motorists to observe the state law which requires all automobiles to stop when approaching school buses in the act of discharging or taking on passengers.

Iron-clad orders that all bus drivers must stop at railroad crossings have been issued to operators by H. C. Leonard, county superintendent of schools.

Buses bring rural school children to Salem to attend public schools here five days a week. Alan explained, but their work is not direct, by under the jurisdiction of the local board of education. The vehicles are operated by owners of the buses without any school supervision, but strict orders have been given by Alan that they obey all traffic laws and stop at all railroad crossings.

Of the 700 rural school pupils who attend other county schools, 400 are enrolled in the Fairfield centralized elementary and high school, two miles south of Columbiana. An additional 225 attend Leetonia and

BOARD MAY TAKE ACTION TONIGHT

Extension of School Area May Be Settled At Special Meeting

Consideration of the extension of the Salem city school districts to include the school district of Perry township will, for the second time be considered at a special session of the Salem board of education when members of the board meet at 7:30 tonight for a meeting at which final action will probably be taken on the project.

The board met at a previous session at noon last Friday and went on record as approving the school district extension providing that the Columbiana county commissioners grant the city's petition for an extension of its city corporation limits.

A report will be made by Atty. Joel Sharp, who represented the board at a conference with members of the board of county commissioners at Lisbon following last week's meeting. Sharp informed commissioners of the board's action through a copy of the motion made at the meeting. The motion was to the effect that the board will approve the school extension project if the corporation limit extension is allowed.

Dr. T. T. Church of Salem, county health commissioner, gave a talk at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the Salem township consolidated schools Monday night at Perry grange hall, Franklin rd. Dr. Church discussed the consolidation of schools. He favors this movement among schools. Some of the others in the company gave talks. An orchestra from the Washingtonville school furnished music.

SOLDIERS' HOME ENDANGERED BY MICHIGAN GANG

Bullets Fly As Officers Round Up Bandits In Detroit Suburb

NEAR $50,000 LOOT THOUGHT IN PLACE

Letter Gives Police Tip On Plans of Men To Enter Place

Detroit, Jan. 28.—One man was wounded, two police officers narrowly escaped death and seven men were in jail today as the result of a gang round-up in Detroit suburbs.

Police believe they frustrated a plan to rob the Old Soldiers and Sailors home at Sandusky, O., of from $5,000 to $10,000 worth of jewelry, $5,000 to $10,000 worth of narcotics and from $10,000 to $40,000 in cash.

The round-up was the result of a letter from an unknown man in St. Louis to Cyril Hansen, former patrolman, which fell into police hands. The letter told of the burglary opportunities offered by the Soldiers and Sailors home.

"The place has never been robbed because no one knows that there is any dough there," the letter read. After describing the buildings and location of three safes, the unknown writer said, "Two doctors are upstairs. You go up and shake them down and tie them up."

Police are attempting to connect four of the men arrested with the murder of August Frederick, bartender, in an alleged speakeasy here November 21 of last year.

A chase, revolver shots and an attempt by the gangsters to shoot officers featured the round-up. Bernard Nowicki and Alfred Kreis, detectives, yesterday went to a furniture store, a police say, was a speakeasy. They had received information that men wanted for the robbery of a meat market might be found there.

Accompanying the officers were two state troopers. In the arrest of four men in the store, one of them pressed a revolver against Nowicki's side. Nowicki knocked it away, and the fight started.

Hansen was arrested when officers riding in an automobile. They were ordered to halt. Their orders disregarded, the policemen shot one of the tires off the car. A chase followed after which the three surrendered.

FEAR FELT FOR LIVES OF THOSE IN FLOOD AREAS

Aviators Fail To Locate Trace of Life Over Large Expanse

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 28.—Silence that foreboded disaster pervaded over sections of the southwestern Indiana flood region today, according to fliers and relief workers who fear many refugees have starved to death as they huddled in farmhouses surrounded by flood waters.

Red Cross officials directing relief work in the area have broadcast urgent appeals for assistance as the need for communication with isolated points grows more acute.

More than 500 persons in the area near the mouth of the Wabash river below Mt. Vernon are still cut off from food and supplies. Conditions in this community are appalling, according to aviators.

A general lack of smoke from homes in this area causes apprehension. Communities which formerly showed signs of activity now appear lifeless, the aviators report.

Aviators using Vincennes as a base yesterday dropped food to 40 families suffering from lack of food and fuel near the White river. Their plight was only learned after a man and his son made their way over treacherous fields of ice and water.

Seven Die As Fire Destroys Residence

Denver, Jan. 28.—Seven persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Martinez home at Frederick, Colo., a coal mine camp 20 miles northwest of here, early today.

The victims were Mrs. Pearl Martinez, her five children, and a man named Newton, who entered the blazing home in a rescue attempt.

This year's directories include several changes from the 1929 books. Huffman explained. Numbers of fire and police stations in Salem and other towns listed in the directory are placed on the front cover. Plates of calls to nearby exchanges are listed on an inside page while members of the Salem Ministerial association and other pastors in the county are listed in the back of the book.

Static Must Be Bad In Circleville

Circleville, O., Jan. 28.—Radio static was praised and not condemned by James Newland here today. The static frightened away two thugs, who were about to rob Newland late yesterday.

He told police that two armed men entered his grocery and ordered him to put up his hands. He complied with their commands and while they were searching the store for loot, Newland managed to open the door which leads into the living room of his home. His wife had just turned on the radio.

As the dials reached into a pile of static, a noise, such as a machine-gun would make, emerged from the loud-speaker. The thugs pulled their caps down over their faces and fled, empty-handed.

CITY BANKS SUE COUNTY FOR TAX MONEY REFUNDS

East Palestine Bank In Similar Action To Recover Sum

OVERPAID $24,512 INSTITUTIONS CLAIM

Cite Ohio Law To Prove That Overpayment Was Tendered

Lisbon, Jan. 28.—Three National Banks, two at Salem and one at East Palestine have filed suits in common pleas court to recover a total of $24,512.30 from Columbiana county. The petitions, which are quite similar, have set up that the taxes paid by the several banks as of June 20, 1929 are without authority of law.

The banks are represented by Boone & Campbell of Salem and Brooks & Thompson of East Liverpool.

The several petitions after making reference to sections 5408, 5411 and 5412 of the general code of Ohio set up that the shares of a national or state bank shall be listed at the true value in money and taxed only in the city, ward or village where such bank is located.

The several banks furnished the county auditor on May 8, 1928 statements showing the capital stock, surplus and undivided profits, after deducting value of real estate holdings, and that the tax paid by the Farmers National bank of Salem for that taxing year was $5,769.56.

Show Tax Paid.

The petitions also show that this tax was in excess of the amount that would have been assessed and paid by the plaintiff and its respective stockholders had they been permitted to treat, use and apply their shares of bank stock as credits from which to deduct the respective debts of the individual shareholder, and to return such shares for taxation in rural and outlying taxing districts at a lower rate than applied to the city of Salem.

In the petition filed by the First National bank in Salem, the identical legal references are made as in the first petition, this bank claiming that there is now due it from the county $18,899.94.

The petition filed by the First National bank of East Palestine seeks a judgment for $3,852.80 on a like petition as filed by the two Salem banks. Interest at six per cent is sought in all three petitions from June 20, 1929.

Two Killed In Wreck At Rochester; Training Ship Falls

BULLETIN

Kansas City, Kas., Jan. 28.—State warrants charging criminal negligence on the part of Central Airlines, subsidiary of Universal Aviation corporation, in connection with the crash of a Central Airlines cabin monoplane here last night, will be asked today, Dr. Ben F. Coffin, Wyandotte county coroner, announced this morning.

Dr. Coffin declared he believed the Airline officials should be held criminally liable for hampering the official investigation into the crash which killed five persons.

Kansas City, Kas., Jan. 28.—Wyandotte county officials began an investigation today into the removal of evidence of last night's crash of a central airline cabin monoplane which killed five persons.

The destruction and removal of the wreckage was done in defiance of instructions from Dr. Ben F. Coffin, Wyandotte county coroner, the coroner informed International News Service today.

"What steps will be taken toward prosecuting the guilty parties, I do not know," Dr. Coffin said. "This phase of the situation has been placed in the hands of the county attorney."

Kansas City, Jan. 28.—Bent on determining what caused the crash of a Central Airlines cabin monoplane here late yesterday which burst into death to four passengers and a pilot, E. E. Lauder, department of commerce officials today were to subject the wreckage to a minute scrutiny.

Similar to the recent crash that took 16 lives at Oceanside, Calif., the cabin plane burst into flames when it struck the ground. Although Fairfax airport attendants attempted to fight the blaze with fire extinguishers, the intense heat prevented close approach or rescue of the ship's occupants.

Property Holders Desire New Salem - Lisbon Highway Route

Lisbon, Jan. 28.—Farmers and property owners on the old Lisbon-Salem turnpike have offered county commissioners waivers of all damages, and in addition give all aid possible if it is finally determined to improve this road from Lisbon to Salem through Franklin Square, in Salem township.

A delegation of 50 or more farmers in Salem township and business people at Leetonia headed by Ira Mellinger and Harry D. Arnold of Leetonia, made this proposition to the commissioners this week.

The offer followed the report that $20,000 damages sought by property owners along the present traveled Lisbon-Salem rd. was considered prohibitive. The damage claims have been filed by those property owners residing on the brick section of the road and which it is proposed to re-route around it.

The commissioners have also been informed that the mileage of school buses traveling into and out of Le

THE AMERICAN LEGION

The American Legion is the most exclusive organization in the world. Its membership is closed forever and its initiation ceremonies can never be repeated. Other wars may create similar organizations in the future, but there can be but one original Legion. Its members are and always will be held in high respect by the nation for what they did to protect their fellow men in a time of danger.

American soldiers, mobilized and demobilized, do not confine their patriotism to times of war, however. It is a noble thing to offer life for an ideal, but it is just as noble to offer service, which is the paramount interest of the American Legion in this present time of peace. On the walls of every Legion headquarters hang numerous reminders of war and in every Legionnaire's heart are living thoughts of the cataclysmic days of 1914, but of more importance than these is the fine spirit engendered by the willingness to sacrifice everything for love of country.

In the van of every worthy civic effort in communities all over the United States are found Legion members striving hard to better the country which they have defended. Workers of the Legion are tireless in their efforts to improve the state of the poverty-stricken and the unfortunate. The symbols of the open door and the helping hand characterize the activities of the organization.

It is every World War veteran's duty and privilege to align himself with this worthy organization in which money or social standing have no place. Salem veterans who have failed to do this will be given an opportunity in the near future when Charles Carey Post opens a membership campaign; it is unbelievable that urging will be necessary.

The law enforcement may or may not have been facetious when it alluded to a "staggering number of arrests."

VICTOR HERBERT

Every two weeks trucks back up to a certain New York theater, deposit a load of scenery and depart with another, which is an integral part of the process of staging fortnightly revivals of musical comedies by the late Victor Herbert. The successful revival of this popular composer's operettas is one of the most amazing phenomena of New York's theatrical year.

It was scarcely two years ago that an appraisal of the estate of Victor Herbert's widow included the statement that all future royalties on his work would not exceed $2,000, and that only one song, "A Kiss in the Dark," still had any appreciable sale. Since this proposition was issued there has been a surprising return to popularity of Herbert compositions. They are sung and played daily in countless radio stations, and rare is the program of so-called semi-classical music on which Victor Herbert is not represented. His music lends itself admirably to reproduction for radio broadcasting.

Victor Herbert, who was a conductor as well as a composer, was born February 1, 1859. He was the grandson of Samuel Lover, the celebrated author of "Handy Andy," who was a painter, song writer, and dramatist, as well as a novelist. Herbert began his musical education in Germany when he was seven years old, and, having made a name for himself as a "cellist," came to this country in 1885. He was subsequently connected with many well-known orchestras as soloist and conductor, but it is as a composer that his name has commanded the most attention. Besides the scores for instrumental ensembles which he wrote, he composed the music for thirty-three comic operas and two grand operas. He died in 1934.

Victor Herbert had a natural aptitude for melody and tunes which one could not help but whistle, sing and hum and he, probably more than any other individual, weaned the country away from the "sobballads" to the brighter, more humorous compositions of the light opera and comic opera type. Not all of his hundreds of compositions were equally good. Some were to be sure, trite, but the surprising thing is that so many of them were excellent.

Those who style themselves experts in public taste ascribe the revival of Herbert's music to the fact that the public is somewhat satiated with modern jazz melodies, which are all so much like each other that one is put to it to tell them apart. At any rate the "good old days" when Victor Herbert, Franz Lehár and Oscar Straus were kings of our popular musical world seems to be with us again.

It just makes some people sick to read that Commissioner Doran has issued permits to three distilleries to distill rye whiskey for medicinal purposes. Positively sick!

What Others Say

THE GYPSY.

Two men known as Gypsies have been sent to the reformatory at Anamosa for swindling an Iowa farmer out of several thousand dollars. No Gypsy has been confined in that institution for fifteen years.

The wandering Gypsy has practically disappeared in this country. He has gone the way of the medicine show and the one-ring circus. Those who remain travel in big cars and have usually found a more lucrative business than telling fortunes and stealing horses.

Since their first appearance in Europe in the fifteenth century, Gypsies have been wanderers and thus have been foreigners wherever they were. The European bands claimed to be Egyptians—thus the name "Gypsies"—exiled by the Saracens. But they have long since been more definitely traced to India, and they are still numerous only in Hungary, Turkey, and other parts of eastern Europe. The true Gypsy never made any great appearance in the United States, but dark-skinned immigrant bands who preferred to roam this country adopted the romance and color of the Gypsy life as well as its method of sustenance. And as the rural folk became less and less susceptible to this Gypsy's wiles, he has gradually withdrawn to the centers thickly populated by his own race.

We who used to run to the cellar and hide, for fear of being kidnapped, when the cloth-covered Gypsy wagons filled through town may lament his passing, for he furnished a picturesque background to our childhood. But after all, his disappearance represents a step upward in social average.—Des Moines Register.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, January 29

The prevailing planetary configurations operating on this day point to every propitious and progressive state, with all things advancing and expanding under benignant forces. There may be promotions, honors or other tokens of esteem from those in places of position and authority. This preferment is possible in employment as well as in personal relations, in either there may be change of a decided advantage, as all spells success and prosperity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of success, achievement, advancement and fulfilled ambitions, both business and private. It is probable that there will be honors, preferment of assistance from persons in places of power and influence. Change of a desirable nature seems imminent. A child born on this day will be excellently endowed with many graces and substantial talents making for success and prosperity in life. It may reach high position, assisted to honors and recognition by these in authority.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

FOOT MISERY

Nothing can hurt more than an aching foot. It is a pity so many persons have tender feet. If these members were properly cared for in infancy and early childhood there would be less foot trouble later in life.

Shoes and stockings are important factors in promoting foot comfort and health. Little feet go running and jumping, skipping and climbing all day long. Is it any wonder that they get tired and ache at night?

School shoes for children should be well-fitted, not too tight and not too loose. They must be just right, or else they are all wrong. There should be plenty of room for the toes.

Stockings should be sufficiently long. This is necessary so as not to bind the foot and toes. The toes should not be crowded by the stockings. Quite as often the trouble may be traced to short stockings as to short shoes.

Children's shoes should be long enough. It is important not to crowd any part of the foot. The heels of the shoes should be kept straight, not worn over. The posture of the foot is ruined if the heels are not flat.

Don't put high heels on a young girl. They throw the body out of the correct posture. When she is older she will have to decide for herself, but in childhood, do your part to start the youngster right.

Children often have tired and aching feet at night. Much comfort will be given by bathing the feet for ten minutes in hot water to which salt has been added. Bathing the feet often is good for everyone. The toe nails should be cut straight across. It is bad to cut the corners next to the side of the nail.

Have your child's feet examined once in a while by a good chiropodist, or podiatrist. It is just as important as to see the dentist.

Correct posture makes for good health. Correct shoe helps good posture.

Everybody should know that foot exercises are useful. They bring foot health. Standing on the toes, standing on the edges of the feet—these exercises help to make the feet strong and capable.

STORMS CAUSE GREAT DAMAGE

Many Lives Lost As Gale Lashes Coast Line Of European Nations

Madrid, Jan. 28.—Storms raging in the Spanish and Portuguese coasts are taking a heavy toll in lives and ships of fishing fleets, according to dispatches received here today.

Eleven were drowned when the fishing smack Carmen foundered off Vigo, dispatches from that port stated.

Grave fears were also held for the safety of 11 men aboard the ship, another fishing smack which has been missing for several days.

The storms were reported to be continuing violently. The harbor of Vigo is filled with vessels which sought its shelter and are now unable to leave.

Twelve bodies, believed to be those of the crew of the Danish ship, a vessel which foundered in December, have been washed ashore at Bayona, according to reports from there.

At San Lucar De Barrameda, the storm is continuing with undiminished fierceness. Several fishing boats are missing there.

Considerable damage on land was reported along the Portuguese coast, so vessels, the Italian freight ship Paolo and the Spanish tanker Elze reached the harbor of Lisbon in a severely battered condition. Each had lost two seamen.

NAVAL SESSIONS FORCED IN OPEN

France - Italian Problem Is Thought To Tire Other Delegates

London, Jan. 28.—Apparently becoming weary of the interminable Franco-Italian debate within the scope of the "Big Five" meetings, the American viewpoint was thrust suddenly into the picture this morning with the result that a plenary session of the naval disarmament conference was called for Thursday, notwithstanding the fact that the parley as yet has no agenda to work upon.

The plenary session was voted on motion made by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, chief of the American delegation.

The practical result of this unusual procedure is to force the discussion into the open, for it was decided—on American initiative—that the press will be admitted to Thursday's session.

The entire army of newspapermen present, numbering about 300, naturally cannot possibly be crowded into Queen Anne's drawing room, where the session will be held, but each country will have adequate representation.

Charges that "a big blond man with curly hair, who traveled with sister" was in real command of affairs at Angelus temple, and that members of the temple board were only "a set of tin soldiers," were contained in a letter written by Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy to Mrs. M. J. Crawford (above). This letter, as well as two other letters written by Mrs. Kennedy to Mrs. Crawford, has been turned over to the Los Angeles district attorney's office and may be presented before the 1932 grand jury.

CLEVELAND HAS OTHER MANAGER

Daniel E. Morgan Now On Post Occupied By W. R. Hopkins

Cleveland, Jan. 28.—State Senator Daniel E. Morgan is Cleveland's new city manager today.

Morgan was elected last night by the same city council that, two weeks ago, voted to oust his predecessor, William R. Hopkins. He received 19 votes. Six "protest" votes were cast—three for County Auditor John Zangerle, two for former City Manager Hopkins, and one for Law Director Harold H. Burton, who has been acting manager since Hopkins' suspension.

Enthusiastic demonstration tore through the council chambers upon Morgan's election. In accepting the appointment, Morgan pledged himself to give the Manager plan a fair trial; to co-operate with city council and to give the city a business like and progressive administration.

After filing bond and taking oath of office, Morgan took over the city manager offices today in city hall. His resignation as state senator was dispatched to Gov. Myers V. Cooper in Columbus yesterday.

Acceptance of congratulatory messages took up most of the new manager's time today, although he planned to give much thought to his cabinet appointments. With the exception of two offices, the remainder of the manager's cabinet was expected to remain intact.

Lisbon, Jan. 28.—At a district meeting of the American Legion held at Orrville Sunday a bronze gavel ball was presented Commander Clarence Ball of John Welsh post, Lisbon, as a prize to the state post making the greatest gain in membership during the last year. There were over 300 members of the organization at the meeting which was held in the auditorium of the Orrville high school. Music was furnished by the Orrville high school band and also by the Massillon Legion drum corps.

Addresses were made by State Commander Dudley White, of Newark, State Treasurer Porter Forsythe, who made the honor prize presentation speech, and Col. William Martin, regional manager of the Cleveland office of the United States Veterans bureau.

Those attending from John Welsh post in addition to Commander Ball were District Adjutant Lynn R. Riddle, Sub-district Commander Hugh Ramsey, and First Vice Commander of John Welsh Post Horace Pritchard. Every American Legion post in this district was represented at the Orrville meeting.

DICTATOR OF SPAIN QUILTS

De Rivera Has Tendered His Resignation To King Alfonso

Madrid, Jan. 28.—Gen Primo de Rivera, premier and dictator of Spain since 1923, has tendered his resignation to King Alfonso. It was reported here today.

The report was without official confirmation.

The report indicated that the recent canvass made by Premier de Rivera among the principal army leaders throughout Spain as to whether he should remain in office had resulted in an unfavorable verdict.

Primo de Rivera announced some months ago that he would shortly relinquish his post and turn over the dictatorship to a successor who would be able to carry out his domestic and foreign policies.

Just Recently Separated From Famous American Woman In Courts Of Paris

London, Jan. 28.—Dudley Field Malone, noted American divorce lawyer, today filed notice of his intended marriage to Miss Edna Louise Johnson, of Brooklyn, New York.

This will be Malone's third marriage. He was recently divorced from Doris Stevens, of Omaha, Nebraska, distinguished economist and feminist leader.

Miss Johnson, according to the notice, is 24 years of age. She was born in Minnesota.

The wedding will take place at noon at the prince's registry office, Malone told International News Service.

"It will be followed by a wedding breakfast at Claridge's," Malone said he had known Miss Johnson for some time, but news of the coming marriage came as a complete surprise. The divorce which parted the famous attorney from Miss Stevens was granted by the Paris courts only a few weeks ago.

When Charles E. Snay of Tiffin, O., a pipe fitter and Nellie M. Boso of Lisbon applied for a marriage license, it was made known that the girl was under age and that her father John W. Boso was out of the state.

Mrs. Boso was then appointed guardian for the minor by Judge Lodge Riddle, and after this formalizing the license was issued.

The couple were married by the Rev. Wood of the Lisbon Nazarene church.

Adults, too, prefer

"NO DOSING" for COLDS

When Vicks introduced the better method of treating colds externally it was especially appreciated by mothers because it avoids "dosing," which so often disturbs children's delicate digestions.

Each year more and more adults, too, have found Vicks equally good for their own colds. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Just rubbed on, Vicks gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled, and, at the same time, acts through the skinlike a plaster.

PRESIDENT'S SON NAMED IN ACTION

Webb C. Hayes Asks What Became of State Fund For Memorials

Columbus, O., Jan. 28.—An injunction suit, which asks that Col. Webb C. Hayes, son of former President Rutherford B. Hayes, account for state funds which are alleged to have been spent illegally in connection with the Hayes homestead in Sandusky county, was on file in the Franklin county common pleas court here today.

The funds are said to have been illegally spent when the homestead of the former president was converted into a state museum. The suit was instituted by James Cameron, of Fremont, and asks for $27,523 exemplary damages.

The suit charges that Hayes misappropriated state funds by using them for other purposes than was allowed by the state legislature. The museum project was started 23 years ago, and Col. Hayes is asked to give a full accounting for all money which has been appropriated since then.

at all crossings and look and listen for approaching trains or street-cars before proceeding. County Superintendent Leonard stated today, "Every precaution to protect the children riding in the buses has been taken by this county."

School busses are often used in providing transportation for basketball teams to neighboring towns. Leonard declared, and the same cars have been directed at these drivers on these occasions.

Alan declared Monday afternoon that steps will be taken to inform drivers of the vehicles which bring pupils to this city of state regulations.

"Although these busses are not directly under our supervision, I am naturally interested in safeguarding the lives of the children who attend school here. We will take every precaution to see that the students are transported to and from this city in safety," he explained.

State officials have taken action to remove all bus drivers who are judged as unfit in an order issued by Attorney General Gilbert Bellman. Brown is having every school bus in the state inspected in an effort to eliminate all those which are defective.

Twenty-five inspectors have been assigned to this work by Chalmers B. Wilson, state commissioner of motor vehicles. An attempt will also be made by Brown to force every bus driver in the state secure a chauffeur's license so that none but competent operators can act in that capacity. Brown stated in an announcement today.

The state law regarding the action of motorists on the highway when a school bus is discharging or taking on passengers is clear to its effect and a Salem man is now in Mahoning county jail, facing a charge of manslaughter, filed against him as a result of the death of a Canfield girl who died from injuries after being struck by his truck.

The law follows: "When a vehicle is approaching a school bus that has come to a stop and is in the act of receiving or discharging school children, the driver of the vehicle must bring it to a stop within not less than 10 feet from the bus and remain stationary until the children have entered the bus or have alighted from it and reached the nearest adjacent side of the road or highway. This applies to all roads and highways outside of a municipal corporation."

The letter received by Supt. Alan from the state department follows: "In consequence of three fatal school bus accidents since the first of this calendar year, I am directed by Governor Myers, Y. Cooper, to formulate a code of safety regulations for those districts of the state in which children are daily transported to and from their respective schools.

"Local boards of education are primarily responsible for the employment of drivers of school busses and for the rules and regulations under which they operate. Hence, I am seeking your cooperation in formulating a tentative set of rules and regulations of your own and communicate them at once to such persons as are under this responsibility in your area. By immediate and hearty response to these requests you may prevent the occurrence of similar tragedies in your area, or at least relieve yourself of personal responsibility for them.

"I am sure that I can count on you for assistance in this all important matter and assure you that I shall greatly appreciate whatever you may do to help make the highways safer for children of the commonwealth."

Adults, too, prefer "NO DOSING" for COLDS

When Vicks introduced the better method of treating colds externally it was especially appreciated by mothers because it avoids "dosing," which so often disturbs children's delicate digestions.

Each year more and more adults, too, have found Vicks equally good for their own colds. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Just rubbed on, Vicks gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled, and, at the same time, acts through the skinlike plaster.

Webb C. Hayes Asks What Became of State Fund For Memorials

Columbus, O., Jan. 28.—An investigation into which asks that Col. Webb C. Hayes, son of former President Rutherford B. Hayes, account for state funds which are alleged to have been spent illegally in connection with the Hayes home in Sandusky county, was on file in the Franklin county common pleas court here today.

The funds are said to have been illegally spent when the homestead of the former president was converted into a state museum. The suit was instituted by James Cameron, of Fremont, and asks for $27,500 exemplary damages.

The suit charges that Hayes misappropriated state funds by using them for other purposes than was allowed by the state legislature. The museum project was started 25 years ago, and Col. Hayes is asked to give a full accounting for all money which has been appropriated since then.

at all crossings and look and listen for approaching trains or street cars before proceeding." County Superintendant Leonard stated today. Every precaution to protect the children riding in the busses has been taken by this county.

School busses are often used in providing transportation for basketball teams to neighboring towns. Leonard declared, and the same order have been directed at these drivers on these occasions.

Alan declared Monday afternoon that steps will be taken to inform drivers of the vehicles which bring pupils to this city of state requirements.

"Although these busses are not directly under our supervision, I am naturally interested in safeguarding the lives of the children who attend school here. We will take every precaution to see that the students are transported to and from this city in safety," he explained.

State officials have taken action to remove all bus drivers who are judged as unfit in an order issued by Attorney General Gilbert B. Sweeney while Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown is having every school bus in the state inspected in an effort to eliminate all those which are defective. Twenty-five inspectors have been assigned to the work by Chalmers R. Wilson, state commissioner of motor vehicles. An attempt will also be made by Brown to force every bus driver in the state to secure a chauffeur's license so that none but competent operators can act in that capacity. Brown stated in an announcement today.

The state law regarding the action of motorists on the highway when a school bus is discharging or taking on passengers is clear to its effect and a Salem man is now in Mahoning county jail, facing a charge of manslaughter, filed against him as a result of the death of a Canfield girl who died from injuries after being struck by his truck.

The law follows:

"When a vehicle is approaching a school bus that has come to a stop and is in the act of receiving or discharging school children, the driver of the vehicle must bring it to a stop within not less than 10 feet from the bus and remain stationary until the children have entered the bus or have alighted from it and reached the nearest adjacent side of the road or highway. This applies to all roads and highways outside of a municipal corporation."

The letter received by Supt. Alan from the state department follows:

"In consequence of three fatal school bus accidents since the first of this calendar year, I am directed by Governor Myers V. Cooper to formulate a code of safety regulations for those districts of the state in which children are daily transported to and from their respective schools."

"Local boards of education are primarily responsible for the employment of drivers of school busses and for the rules and regulations under which they operate. Hence, I am seeking your cooperation in reaching all boards in your district providing such transportation and all bus drivers so employed. Will you, therefore, furnish me by return mail the names and addresses of all presidents of boards of education and of all bus drivers within your supervisory jurisdiction."

"And will you kindly make suggestions which you feel will aid in the formulation of such a code of safety regulations. Also please formulate a tentative set of rules and regulations of your own and communicate them at once to such persons as are under this responsibility in your area. By immediate and hearty response to these requests you may prevent the occurrence of similar tragedies in your area, or at least relieve yourself of personal responsibility for them."

"I am sure that I can count on you for assistance in this all important matter and assure you that I shall greatly appreciate whatever you may do to help make the highways safe for children of the commonwealth."

Ask Bee Inspection

Lisbon, Jan. 28.—County commissioners have been asked to set aside a fund for the inspection of bees in Columbiana county.

This request has been made by C.
A. Reese, state apiarist, who with G. F. and J. D. Rehman of Wells-ville laid the proposition before the commissioners.

Action on the request has been taken under advisement. Reese has announced that if an appropriation is made for bee inspection work in this county a state bee inspector will be assigned at air early date.

RULING ASKED IN INSURANCE CASE

Suspension of Payments
By Commission To Bring Action

Columbus, O., Jan. 28.—Governor
Myers Y. Cooper today asked Attorney General Gilbert Betman for an opinion on what may be done to relieve the situation which exists in 27 counties in Ohio, due to the suspension of payment of state insurance to public employees and dependents of deceased public employees.

A relief is sought by the governor until the next session of the state legislature in 1931, when definite steps may be taken.

The state industrial commission suspended payment of the state insurance, pursuant to a recent decision of the Ohio supreme court, because of overdrafts, which total $217,092.16.

In these 27 counties, the commission found, disbursements had exceeded premiums which were paid in by counties, townships, municipalities and school districts for the protection of their employees and beneficiaries.

Governor Cooper took his first step to remedy the situation at a cabinet last night, which was also attended by Wellington T. Leonard, chairman of the industrial commission.

Believe Man Held Is Dayton Bandit

Dayton, O., Jan. 28.—E. L. Doxey, alias Eusey, 25, who is being held under $78,000 bond in Newport, Ky., on a charge of highway robbery, today had been identified by two women employees, as one of the three bandits who held up and robbed the South Park Savings bank of $17-
000 here last Friday.

The man will probably be returned to Dayton today, unless he fights extradition. If the alleged bandit and highwayman fights extradition, police will appeal to Governor Cooper to force his return.

City Class B League Proves Interesting To Salem Cage Fans

Eight Teams Entered For Minor Basketball At Memorial Court

With eight teams battling for minor league honors in the Salem Class B loop, more interest is gradually being given this circuit by the city's fandom. It is the first time in the city's basketball history that more than six teams have been entered in a Class B league.

Games are played in the league every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. Three are played on Mondays and one each of the other two nights, when they serve as preliminaries to Class A contests.

Games played last night resulted in victories for the Little Gems, Trinity Lutherans and First Methodists with the Lease Drugs, Salem China and First Baptists serving as victims.

Drugs Lose In Overtime
The Little Gems' victory over Lease Drugs was the feature of the evening, the game going into an overtime period after the score was tied at 20-20 at the end of the regulation four periods. McQuiken pulled through with the victory for the shoe-shiners, putting two fielders from the side of the floor in the extra session. The final score was 26-22.

Each of the other two games was fairly one-sided. The Lutherans trimmed the Baptists, 23-13 while the Methodists had easy going with the Pottery and won, 14-9.

Class A Games Tonight
The opening of the Class A league second half features activities at Memorial gym tonight. The Episcopalians clash with the Lutherans in the usual Class B prelim following which the Art Jewelers meet the Printz Klub. The Electric Furnace meets McArthur Florists in the third contest.

Three games are also scheduled Thursday. The Fender Benders, undefeated Class B team, play the Little Gems in the opener and the Class A champion Golden Eagles meet the United Cigars in the first Class A tilt. The Art Jewelers play their second game of the week when they meet the Grate Motors in the nightcap.

Conservation Meeting
Conservation is getting somewhere.

Last week in Columbus there was a meeting of state officials, federal and state game warden, American League, Boy Scouts and members of conservation groups. In the senate chamber and it was decided at that time to hold a big conservation rally in the Ohio capital March 5.

Governor Cooper is expected to proclaim the day as Conservation day. The same week will be observed as conservation week all over the state of Ohio. Meetings are planned in many cities and there will be a universal observance. Clubs, churches and schools will be invited to participate.

This is the first thing of its kind in the state and should accomplish much. Although several of the organizations which have cooperated in the present movement have long stood for conservation, it is a decided expansion to get the message into churches and to schools, where it will affect the hunters and fishermen of tomorrow.

Ice Fishing
If you really have an inclination to fish through the ice, this week-end presents an unusual possibility, as the weather for the past week has been such that the lakes are sealed up tight and if the fish are to bite at all, they will now.

Streams over this part of the state have taken on such a coating of ice that creek fishing is almost an impossibility.

But try it once. The experience is worth while, even if no fish are taken.

Antelope Shooting
The pronghorn antelope season in Wyoming has formed considerable of a problem. There was an open season in the past year and a great many were shot by hunters.

Several thousand still exist in the state, but they have concentrated to the extent that it is an easy matter to bag one, although many areas are barren and the animals face extinction.

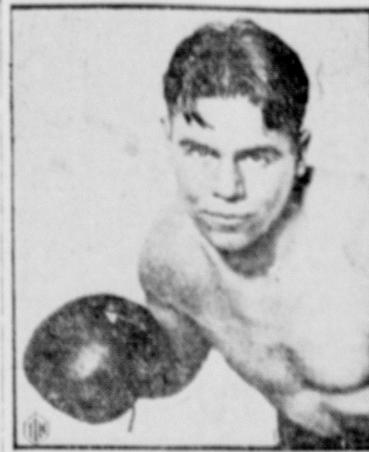

This concentration has been so great on several ranches that the animals have become a pest and the ranchers are glad, indeed, to have them killed off. Loud complaints have arisen about damage done to alfalfa fields.

The big cry put forth by conservationists is that the antelopes were so numerous in certain areas that motor cars were driven into herds and that shooting bordered on slaughter, without respect as to age or sex.

The fish and game department has been watching the situation but did not anticipate matters as they turned out this year. Two years ago there was an open season and 500 permits were taken out. Reports showed that about 350 were killed, which did not take care of the increase. Hence the open season this year and the regrets.

It still remains a problem.

Jones Wins Gotham Fight by Knockout

New York, Jan. 28.—They make 'em tough out in Ohio. A flock of New York admirers of Izzy Grove, the Bronx hard man, admitted today, for Gorilla Jones lived up to his name at St. Nicholas club last night and kayped Mr. Grove in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-rounder.

The fatal blow was a right to the stomach, delivered with much gusto by the Akron battler. Previously Grove had tasted the rosin four times. Grove complained of low hitting but Referee Tommy Sheridan didn't agree with him.

Denver Uncovers Old Billiard Endurance Record Made In '66

Billiardists Battle For Honors In Sensational 32-Hour Contest

There have been champions and champions—flag pole sitters, marathon dancers, etc.—says Edward W. Milligan, authority on western history, but his own favorite champion was the endurance billiard champion, a title that has been open since Denver's infancy when a record of 32 hours of consecutive billiard playing was set.

Not since that day when a Denver banker attired in a frock coat, and a Boulder county mining king in plucked had decided the championship, has a billiardist arisen to claim the title, says Milligan. The story of that first—and last—endurance billiard match, in which the Boulder man was defeated but won $11,000, has long been overlooked by historians, although at the time it was played Denver was at such fever pitch that the stakeholders declared a holiday to watch the contest.

Banker Played
Charles A. Cook, a leading banker, upheld the honor of the city of Denver. John Quincy Adams Rollins, founder of Rollinsville, Colo., represented Boulder county.

Incidentally Milligan explains the story of Rollins' career also has been neglected, because next to the Indians who sold Manhattan island for a few trifling trinkets, Rollins was undoubtedly America's foremost "sucker."

Rollins at one time sold the section that is now the Chicago loop district for $2,400.

The historic billiard game started at 3 p. m. one day in 1866 when Rollins sauntered into Denver's leading billiard parlor, according to accounts uncovered by Milligan, and fell into conversation with Cook, one of the wealthiest men in the region.

"Rollins asserted he could allow Cook twenty points in a hundred point match and beat him," says Milligan in his account. "Cook said he couldn't and offered to play for $400 a game.

Stakes were placed and it was agreed that the two parties were to play until one or the other was exhausted. Then the man who quit first was to forfeit $1,000. That money, too, was opened with a stakeholder.

Game Is Opened
The gentlemen started and Cook seemed to be having unusually bad luck. Darkness came on and lamps were lighted as the game continued. The money was steadily coming from Cook's pocket into that of Rollins.

"The lockers on watched the game with interest and the lights danced within their figured shades, bringing into clear view the eager countenances of the players.

"At midnight Rollins showed signs of fatigue and Cook began to win. So elated was the latter that he proposed to raise the stakes from $400 to $800 a game. Rollins agreed.

Michigan Advances In Big Nine Race

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 28.—Michigan today scored tie with Northwestern for fourth place in the western conference standing following the Wolverines' 26-13 victory over Minnesota here last night.

The game was slow and both teams missed an unusual number of long shots. The defense offered by both teams limited short shots.

Captain Bob Chapman was high point man for Michigan. Gopher forwards were reluctant about shooting and consequently lost scoring opportunities.

This was Minnesota's fourth defeat of the season. The Northwestern have yet to win a game.

Ruth May Sign On Dotted Line By March 1: Two-Year Contract With $80,000 Salary Expected

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Jan. 28.—Babe Ruth, the very unreasonable fellow who wants to be allowed to play ball this year for almost as much money as he is worth, will be signed by March 1, barring unforeseen developments, to a contract the like of which professional baseball never before has known or even visualized in a moment of unguarded reverie.

It will be a contract calling for not less than $80,000 nor more than two years and, in one of its provisions, Ruth either will be declared in on the exhibition-game racket or the racket itself will be reduced to a loud pin drop. This is not idle surmise.

It is the actual status of the Ruth situation today and admitted to be such by everybody, except those immediately concerned. They wouldn't admit that Fort Wayne is in Indiana.

It is the exhibition-game feature that will make the contract unique, although $80,000 isn't routine money, even to a bank messenger who likes Canada because he finds travel is so broadening. Anyhow, no ball player ever has been cut in on the off-day racket and I'm pleased to doubt that any player ever will be, because this would be flouting precedent and, to the baseball mind, precedent is holier than prestige or even an umpire.

Expect Compromise

The point probably will be settled by a compromise whereby Ruth is to play very few exhibition games, or none at all, after the start of the regular season and this in itself will be an extraordinary concession. Baseball always has felt that an off day is a day when the penn have earned the right to work for nothing.

As matters stand, the Yankee ball club won't go for a three-year contract and Ruth won't go for the exhibition-game dodge. They will have to do a little vulgar horse trading on these points when the delicate subject arises again, which will be at St. Petersburg, Fla., during the week of February 21 to 28, at which time an adjustment will be effected in a very dignified manner, like a man being chased by a policeman. I don't mean that the Yankees will be in a hurry; I mean that Paddock will look like a chump.

The exhibition-game thing is to start almost immediately thereafter and, before they get through, the Yankees expect to have Ruth all the way over in Texas. It all comes under the head of spring training, so that when the ball club returns to New York from St. Petersburg by way of Mobile, Houston, San Antonio, Waco, and Wichita Falls, it will have the assurance that everybody has been trained down to his soup meat. There are, in all, 32 games on the spring trip and more than half of them are outside of Florida, where there is to be a guarantee predicted on the basis of Ruth-or-no-count.

PASSES 100 MARK
POINTS ARE HIGH
TONY LOOKS GOOD

Bill Smith is the first Salem High player to pass the 100 mark in scoring this season. He tallied 10 points in the Youngstown East game Saturday and now leads the Red and Black with 104 points. Skipper Greenisen added nine points to his total and now has 94. Other point-makers follow:

Beck 75; Sartick 37; Whinnery 33; Early 19; Schmid 11; Caplan 2; Whitcomb 2.

The team, though it has lost two more games than it has won, outscored its 14 opponents by 27 points, to-date, tallying 399 to 372 points. It has lost two games by one point, two by two points, one by four, one by five, another by seven. In only the Canton McKinley game was the margin of defeat more than seven points. Two games were lost after over-time periods were played while one was won in this fashion.

Love-making and athletics do not mix according to Coach Ben Alstyne at Michigan State. Alstyne has just issued an order to members of his crack cage squad that they must refrain from nocturnal engagements with representatives of the opposite sex for the rest of the basketball season.

There are too many fellows who don't know when to go home," Alstyne explains his edict. "Love's path is not a smooth one and those types of girls who inspire a fellow to do his best when he's on the basketball floor are too few for any coach to allow his players to have dates during any athletic season."

Tony Rubino, Lisbon, High lad who proposes to fight his way through college, won additional honors when he participated in the amateur boxing show at Cleveland last week when he punched Johnny Kovach, Cleveland youngster, groggy in a round and had him all but out when the three-round battle ended. Kermit Evans, another country seat ringer, also won his bout, trimming Jimmie Monroe.

Both lads will make a return trip to Cleveland Thursday night and will be featured in finals of the fight tournament staged at Moose hall.

Noted in History, Give Way to Modern Buildings

THE HOTEL ON PENN. AVE. WHERE BUCHANAN CAME TO HIS INAUGURATION IN 1857.

ECHOES of bygone days will answer the blow of the wreck-er's hammer as it falls on the walls of an old building in Washington, D. C. And a ghostly convention of bygone figures will assemble for a last farewell of the place that was for many of them their favorite earthly habitat.

When the National Hotel is torn down to make room for the Capital's proposed Civic Center, it will mean the demolition of a building that, aside from the Capitol and the Supreme Court, has seen the most momentous history of any other edifice. Since 1827, since when it has been in continuous operation, it has attracted the greatest statesmen, politicians, writers, artists and all the great who appreciated magnificent cuisine and a subtly different atmosphere. Its visitors' book is a roll call of the famous.

To the National came Andrew Jackson when he arrived in Washington for his inauguration, and no doubt he enjoyed the wonderful food that was served at various banquets in his honor. The night of his inauguration he dined there with John C. Calhoun as his guest. President Polk was also a pre-inauguration guest, as was President Buchanan, who was almost killed by a seepage of sewer gas into the hotel. It was at the National that Henry Clay breathed his last. Horace Greeley, Louis Kasouth and other famous men were visitors to his suite, No. 32, which was a gathering place for the great.

The banquet rooms of the National have rung with the inspired eloquence of such speakers as Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, John C. Calhoun, John J. Crittenden, and Alexander S. Stevens who was Vice President of the Southern Confederacy. Charles Dickens was a visitor to the hotel and has given a vivid account of the life there in the first edition of "American Notes." It is said that the assassination of Lincoln was planned in room No. 223, which was occupied for a long time prior to the murder by John Wilkes Booth.

The birthplace of Henry Watterston, the great editor and politician, at No. 55 Pennsylvania Avenue, is also to be razed, as is the building erected by the American Colonization Society, wherein was held the meeting that led to the foundation of the Republic of Liberia in West Africa. Another old building to go is Hymen Hill, where, it is said, John Quincy Adams resided. The house was built in 1800, and contains elaborate carvings.

Abolish Navies May Be Bomb-shell at Parley

What's breakfast without bacon and eggs? To some this menu is as unchangeable as the seasons, as indispensable as morning coffee. But, if the family doesn't tire of it, occasionally the cook does, and at such times she may be able to introduce some variety into breakfast by preparing kidneys. The little veal and lamb kidneys are especially suitable for a breakfast dish—just enough of a pleasant meat flavor and not too substantial to begin the day with.

Some persons find the distinctive flavor of kidneys a little too powerful. But this can be toned down.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Twelve women on this block cooking twelve separate dinners for twelve separate families—what a shameful waste! says Betty, fresh from some fascinating economic courses at college. "Why don't they get together—let one do it all and let the other seven play bridge or go to a concert, or just take it easy? I mean in turn, of course, and with some labor-saving machinery. Electric heaters and automatic cookers, and those other funny gadgets."

Betty is a type of the new generation which regards traditional housekeeping as the last folly. Too much fuss made about it. All this monotonous repetition of cooking and serving and cleaning and dusting and marketing—thousands of motions by a dozen women which could be condensed and avoided. And Betty lives up to her principles—she helps her mother more or less graciously when she has to, since there's no maid in her home, but she will do no more. She refuses to learn anything about cooking or housekeeping in general and has announced that she'll never do housework even if she marries a man of modest means. "What is the use," she demands, "of living in this marvelous age of invention if one doesn't take advantage of it—apply modern ideas of cooperation and labor-saving machines in the place where drudgery is to have it done wholesale."

Now this idea of wholesale housekeeping isn't new by any means. A hotel is a wholesale home, in its way. But who regards hotel living as as flavorless as wholesale cooking, and it's a curious though unexplained fact that large quantity cooking never tastes as good as small quantity, no matter how carefully ingredients are proportioned and measured. Up to a certain point one can increase the items to prepare a larger quantity, without impairing the flavor, but what that point is no one knows exactly. Even with a good chef in charge, the food prepared for 60 is not as flavorful as that prepared for six.

And only those who have had to live in hotels for months or years at a time, can speak feelingly on the subject of wholesome homing. Some of those creatures get terribly sentimental about a home of their own, and find more comfort in an individual home of their own with a deplorable clutter and a few beloved personally chosen objects (not always in perfect taste) than in the most correctly interior-decorated room of a luxurious hotel.

As far as cooperative cooking is concerned, this is being managed in many communities. Sometimes it succeeds. Sometimes it fails. One objection is the expense. Good food cooked cooperatively in a large, modernly equipped kitchen, is expensive. It costs almost as much as dining in a first-class restaurant, and is even more trouble. When you can buy a cooperatively cooked dinner from soup to dessert at a reasonable price, it's due to volunteer, unpaid service in the main. And volunteer service is notoriously unreliable.

Wholesale housekeeping, as we know it, doesn't seem the final answer to the overworked home maker's problem. That is, if she wants a home different from the other twelve on the block. One can't have individuality in the home and the benefit of large quantity production. There's the rub.

But fortunately there are a number of women—on fact, the majority—who find not only recompense for great effort in the charm of an individual home, but even delight in the labor of planning and cooking a good dinner.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, Jan. 28.—Tweeds will twitter just as much in the spring as they have been doing all this winter, according to the freshest reports from the couturiers, but this means softer and lighter tweeds, of course, which will not be too heavy and warm when the sun shines brighter.

A number of the new spring tweeds are extremely light, this lightness being obtained either by the quality of the yarn or by the way the yarns are woven, some for instance are called basket weaves and resemble etamines, others are as porous as Jersey and some pretty novelties are featured with white loops on a mixture ground, while others are woven, with rayon and wool.

Many of the new tweeds for the spring are woven so as to show clearly the structure of the material and some are patterned to show large designs, such as Scottish, with large geometrical designs in opposition to soft colorings with knickers. Nearly all the new tweeds are very colorful and some come in multi-color effects.

One house is showing a feather-weight tweed tricot in small pattern of green and black on creamy ground. The coat is knee-length pocketed and trimmed with beaver and the one-piece dress of the same material buttons down the front and is belted at a high waist-line with brown calf-skin.

Yellow, brown and blue are united in a striking new tweed ensemble worn with a blouse of pale yellow tulle.

Another will sponsor a lovely eucalyptus-green and fresh almost for spring wear to supplant the wintry gowns.

Paris, Jan. 28.—The latest fur ensemble of chic Parisiennes is to have a miniature jacket of some furry animal for their little dress matching their own expensive garments.

The intention, of course, is to keep little Fido, Dick or Bobby warm and cozy, but the result is even more than that. Not only the fur, but the cut of the coat resembles that of his chic mistress, with flares, godets and what-nots making him quite as fashionable as she is.

The smart Russian mujik turban has come in fur and is shown for many outdoor occasions in the South and is invariably a part of the complete fur ensemble. A well-known house has brought out the coat-dress of indescribably plush fur for sports wear. Some of the small accessories of dress now come in valuable furs. Scarves are first favorites with those who prefer the tailored sports suit for general daytime wear. The cravats come in breitschwanz, shaved caracul and other delicate furs and some have the end cut diagonally. A square end of white ermine appears on a black dyed ermine scarf. A black cravat of poney is doubled and only three inches wide, designed to knot in front. A cravat of brown poney is worn with a light gray tweed suit with large pockets of the poney.

Capes which are very popular now offer an opportunity for the richest possible fur or the simplest. For St. Moritz there is a little cape and collar of clipped gray rabbit designed for a short-coated gray tweed.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Soak the kidneys overnight in cold water and mixed with a teaspoon of lemon juice. In the morning drain and skin the kidneys and cut in halves. They may then be prepared in any number of ways.

Several directions must be borne in mind about preparing kidneys. First they must be skinned and the center core removed. Like liver, they need quick cooking. And last, they must always be served piping hot, direct from store to table. Something of the pleasant juicy crispness is lost if kidneys are kept any length of time after they are cooked, and they are quite impossible warmed over.

Today's Pattern

Pan-fried Kidneys
Melt a little bacon or other fat in a frying pan and when hot, add the kidneys cut in half, cover, and cook over a moderate flame for ten minutes. As soon as ready place kidneys on toast, for individual service, and add the juice from the pan. The toast should first be lightly buttered.

Broiled Kidneys
Cover the cleaned, halved kidneys with melted butter. Place a small piece of bacon on a skewer, then kidney, then bacon, and so on, until there are four or five pieces on each skewer. Broil quite near the flame, turning constantly until the kidneys are well cooked, which will be but a few minutes. Serve a skewer per person on buttered toast, sprinkling with salt just before serving.

Lamb Kidney Stew
6 lamb kidneys
1 can of peas, with their juice
1 small onion
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt

Skin and split the washed kidneys and fry for a few moments in the butter. Add chopped onion. Rub in the flour, gradually add the juice from the peas, and add seasoning and lastly the peas. Simmer five minutes and serve.

Beef Kidney Stew
1 large kidney
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire
2 cups water

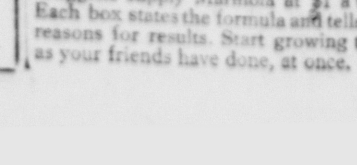

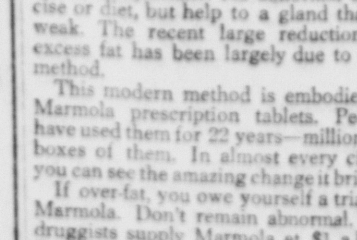

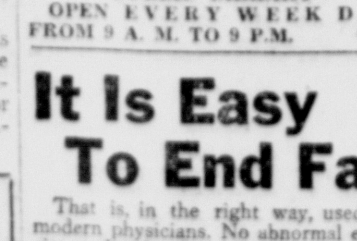

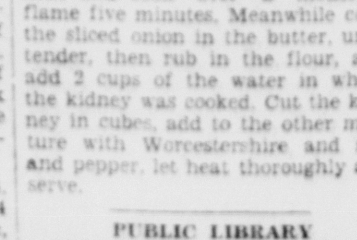

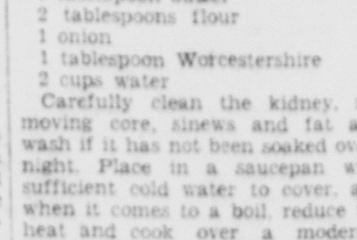

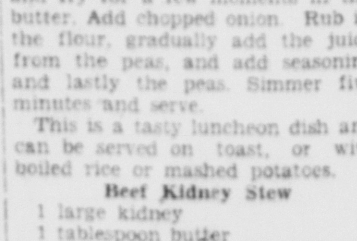

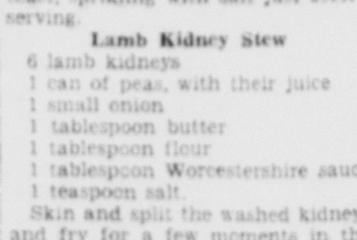

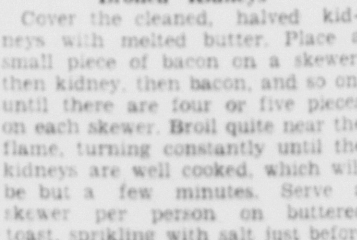

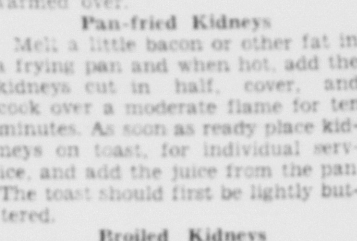

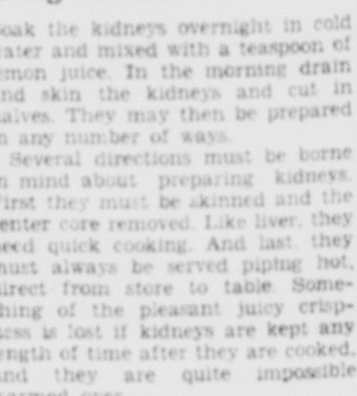

Carefully clean the kidney, removing core, sinews and fat and wash if it has not been soaked overnight. Place in a saucepan with sufficient cold water to cover, and when it comes to a boil, reduce the heat and cook over a moderate flame five minutes. Meanwhile cook the sliced onion in the butter, until tender, then rub in the flour, and add 2 cups of the water in which the kidney was cooked. Cut the kidney in cubes, add to the other mixture with Worcestershire and salt and pepper, let heat thoroughly and serve.

Why Laying Pullets Go On Winter Strike

Many alert poultry keepers endeavor to secure winter eggs to sell at a high price, but some are disappointed and are wondering why their laying pullets "go on a winter strike" or fall off in egg production or go into a molt. Rarely is there a definite answer to this question, according to D. C. Kennard, in charge of poultry investigations at the Ohio Experiment Station. As there is usually not one but many factors responsible for the "strike."

Changes of feed and management are one of the most frequent causes for failure of pullets to continue laying throughout the winter. Chickens are creatures of habit and take very unkindly to changes even though intended for their betterment. Changes may be avoided by preparing a definite schedule of feeding and management before the pullets go into the laying house and then adhering to it.

Overcrowding may be a cause of trouble. Each bird needs 3½ to 4 square feet of floor space. Failure to provide suitable mash feeders and ample feeding space is another cause. Mr. Kennard recommends open box feeders 4 inches deep and 8 inches wide inside and 30 to 40 feet of feeding space for each hundred layers.

Faulty housing conditions may be to blame. If the birds are insufficiently protected against radical changes of weather, the first cold spell often checks production. This may be prevented by tight well-insulated houses in which the temperature can be kept from going much below freezing during zero weather, or by artificial heat.

Pullets may fail to eat enough to meet the extra requirement of winter egg production. Lighting the poultry house, feeding a palatable ration and moistened mash may help. Besides the usual balanced ration, winter layers require lettuce hay or alfalfa meal and direct sunlight or a substitute such as potent cod-liver oil, and a constant supply of warm water. Of course the birds must be free from disease and intestinal parasites.

Leave Space In Orchard For Burning Brush

Suitable spaces for burning brush located in or near the orchard prove a valuable asset. C. W. Ellenwood, assistant in the horticultural department of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, finds, as the labor and expense incident to pruning are increased when it becomes necessary to haul the brush long distances.

Since the disposal of brush in the early stages of the orchard is of minor importance, often very little thought is given to this matter when the orchard is being planted. By the time it is ten years old the amount of brush removed each year is considerable, and it increases annually for at least ten more years.

There are low sections or waste land in many orchards not suitable for planting in trees that make convenient places for burning brush. These spaces should be large enough to preclude the possibility of injury to the trees from fire. As a further precaution several furrows may be turned at the outer edge of the space given over for burning brush. Even though the space is entirely outside the orchard, precaution should be taken against possible fire hazards.

The Federal Farm Board warmly commends to American farmers the Outlook Service provided by the Federal Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural Extension Service in the various states.

Improved farm income requires planned production and effective marketing. In any one year wise production planning must precede effective marketing. In spite of all that nature does, a large responsibility for farm outcome rests with the farmers themselves. The surest way to control an oppressive surplus is to prevent it. No marketing machinery can insure good prices and satisfactory income if the farmer plants and breeds unwisely. The day is past when farmers can safely plan on the basis of current or last year's prices, or on guesses about the future. Planting and breeding operations should rest on the best possible size-up of the market outlook at home and abroad for a year or more to come.

Such an appraisal is given in the Outlook Report, just released by the Department of Agriculture. It has been prepared jointly by a large corps of experts inside and outside the department, drawing upon several years of experience. It deals with prospects for domestic and foreign demand, both in general and for individual crops and livestock products. It is not a prophecy and will probably not be 100 per cent correct. It does not tell each farmer what to do. But it furnishes information that no farmer can get by himself, and that each farmer ought to take into account in planning his own operations.

In the next few weeks this Outlook Report, with special applications to local conditions, will be discussed with farmers in every state of the Union by the Extension Service of the Federal Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural colleges. In recent years they have made splendid progress in bringing such outlook statements home to farmers. The results have been gratifying, but they ought to reach a great deal farther. The Federal Farm Board heartily commends this service to the farmers of the country and believes that it will contribute largely to increasingly intelligent farming operations and toward larger farm incomes.

NEWS AND PROGRAMS

VINCENT LOPEZ AT KDKA
Vincent Lopez and his dance band will furnish the music for the observance of the first anniversary on the air of the Pure Oil program over the WJZ National Broadcasting chain tonight. KDKA will be the best outlet for the program in Salem. Eddie Cantor, noted stage comedian, now playing a starring role in "Whoopee" will be the guest artist. It will start at 8.

JANSSEN SYMPHONIC SKETCH
Dedicated to Dick Grace, movie stunt flyer, Werner Janssen and his Guardians will present another symphonic sketch written by Janssen over WTAM at 8:30. The sketch will be entitled "The Squadron of Death."

MOVIE STARS FEATURED
J. Harold Murray and Bessie Love will be guests artists in the Paul Whiteman-Old Gold broadcast over the Columbia chain at 9—Harry von Tiltz, noted song-writer who has been composing popular music since 1892, makes his radio debut in the Harry Wonder Bakers program at 9:30—The life of Franz Schubert will be dramatized by Nat Shilkret and his Eveready orchestra at 9. Katherine Stewart, noted radio artist, is to be the guest entertainer—The RKO hour comes from WTAM at 10:30 and will feature Lina Basquette, movie actress; Vic Laurie, novelty vocalist; McKay and Arline, comedy duo in a novelty sketch; George Austin Moore, in southern hits and Leo Reisman and his orchestra.

SOCONYLAND SKETCHES
The exploits of Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain Boys will be dramatized in the Soconyland Sketch entitled "Twenty Pounds Reward" at 7:30 over WOY.

LAST NIGHT'S RECEPTION
Reception was unusually good in spots last night with several western stations being heard here with more volume than usual. WTIC and WGB represented the east in unusually well received programs while WHAS, CFRB, Toronto, WSM, WTJ and other more distant stations were all received with excellent power. Stations far up and down on lower sections of the dial were not easily discernible due to noisy atmospheric conditions. The Toronto station, always receivable here, was much better than usual and came in directly above KDKA, the latter being tuned out with ease.

WABC, WIK and WSB were again clear but WPG faded badly. WCAE was heard up until about 6 o'clock but then it disappeared. WLW also was fading badly as was WLS, WBBM, was the best of the Chicago stations while there was little trouble in getting KVVW despite its closeness to WTAM. WKIN was noisy.

Lost 28 Pounds; Konjola Again To The Rescue

Young Lady Glad To Tell What
New and Different Medicine
Meant to Her

MISS GERTRUDE HUDSON

"How I wish I had known of Konjola sooner; what days of suffering and anguish I could have been spared." So says Miss Gertrude Hudson, 1908 Summit street, Columbus. "For two years I was badly run down. My weight dropped from 132 to 104 pounds. My digestion was poor, and after every meal came gas and bloating accompanied by severe pain.
"But what wonders Konjola worked. While taking the first bottle I gained five pounds. I took an entire treatment of six bottles, and in six weeks my digestion was restored. I had regained all the weight I had lost, and I am enjoying health that I never expected to have again.
"Thus Konjola works quickly and thoroughly. Here is, indeed, a medicine for old and young; for all who suffer and who would know again the joy that comes with health.
"Konjola is sold in Salem at all J. H. Lease (Mr. Kaminsky) Drug stores, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout the entire section.—Adv.

Another hard pair of games are on the program for Coach Barba's boys and girls Friday evening in the home gym, when the fast Canfield squads make their bi-annual visit. Both visiting teams are known as among the best in Mahoning county this season and it will behoove the C. H. S. assemblies to do better than their best to make a good showing. The teams did not meet last season but two years ago Canfield won both games played here and broke even in the games at Canfield. The Columbianna boys fought hard in their game against Lisbon last Friday night, especially in the second half, when they tied the score at 24 all, only to be beaten in the final minute by one point. The girls made a very poor showing in their defeat, the bad foul shooting again showing up, only 4 of 17 attempts being made good.

Foiled by Moderation! THE HEARTLESS SHADOW that threatens the modern figure

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Avoid the snags along the common-sense path to fitness and fashion. Don't let over-indulgence deprive you of the tantalizing contour of the modern figure. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain the graceful, modern figure with its captivating curves.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Every one knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.
